Today, we operate in fifteen countries in Europe and beyond,” said Serge Savasta, CEO of Omnes Capital.

As a seasoned professional, with nearly two decades of experience in the infrastructure industry, Caroline Kragerud, of Swedish nationality, has joined the Investor Relation team at Omnes Capital, alongside Partner Miria Späth-Werder. After working for the global utility Veolia, Caroline joined Cube Infrastructure’s investment team in 2010. He previously worked at KPMG and EY, and for asset managers in the Netherlands and Australia. Most recently, Joost provided advisory services to several venture capital fund managers and continues to serve on the impact committee at Innovation Industries in the Netherlands.

She previously built sustainability campaigns for an international coalition of NGOs, and held the position of CMO at the French FinTech Skaleet. Estelle also leverages her earlier career as a journalist to push for a bold narrative on sustainable funds within the Private Equity space.

These strategic additions to the Omnes Capital team underscore the firm's commitment to drive sustainable investments, and strengthen its position as a leading player in the energy transition in Europe and beyond.
